

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start!
- Let's Explore!
- Let's Practice!
- Extension Activity
- Target Words
- Learning Points

Let's Start!

I've learned a lot of good tips and tricks for doing interviews.

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Have you ever had an interview that went badly? What happened?
- What are your strengths and weaknesses?

Can Do Statements

- I can discuss future plans.
- I can report what someone had previously said.
- I can explain how to be successful in an interview.

Let's Explore!

Adam talks to his friend Grant about interviews.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Grant: So how's life been treating you, buddy?
- Adam: Alright, I guess. I'm working pretty hard looking for a job.
- Grant: Oh, we've all been there. I'm going to an interview next week.
- Adam : It's really tough. I've done so many interviews, I could write an instruction manual about how to do them. I will be going to a few more interviews in the next few weeks.
- Grant: Problem is, you haven't been successful at getting a job. I'm not sure your manual would be a best-seller.
- Adam : Oh, get out of here! I've learned a lot of good tips and tricks for doing interviews. When is yours?
- Grant: I have an interview next Wednesday. I could really use some help.
- Adam : Well, the first thing you have to do is do research about the company. You'll learn about the structure and purpose of the company. You'll also see how they set themselves apart from others. You'll impress the interviewer if you give some reasons why you want to work there. I'm going to do a lot more research before my next interview.
- Grant: That makes sense. In my last interview, they asked me why I wanted to work there instead of somewhere else. I didn't know what to say.
- Adam: The next thing is to find out as much as you can about the role. Some recruiters asked me if I thought the job advertisement was misleading. They explained that the person writing the job description was often not the person you work for. It's possible you will be doing something quite different in the role.
- Grant: That's interesting.
- Adam: Thirdly, it sounds a bit cliché, but you really have to know your strengths and weaknesses. Employers want you to be self-aware. You have to take a long hard look at what you have achieved, the way you have achieved that result, and the skills you developed along the way. This helps you understand what you're good at. It gives you confidence.
- Grant: Sold! I'll be the first person to buy a copy of your manual. When I finish reading it, I will have learned everything I need to know about doing interviews!

Let's Practice!

Do you know your strengths and weaknesses?

Instructions: Read the dialogue again. Select the correct answer.

1. According to the dialogue, what do you have to know about the company if you want to have a great interview?
 - ☐ the work schedule.
 - ☐ the number of employees.
 - ☐ the structure and purpose.
 - ☐ the recreational activities.
2. Why is it important to do research on the job?
 - ☐ the job description may not be accurate.
 - ☐ you may not be in the right interview.
 - ☐ the president may not know who you are.
 - ☐ you may not like the job.

Let's Practice!

Adam talks about his plans for preparing for future interviews.

Instructions: Classify the words into the correct category.

1. They're going to ask you how they set themselves apart from others.
2. I'm going to an interview next week.
3. I'm going to do a lot more research before my next interview.
4. You'll impress the interviewer if you give some reasons why you want to work there.
5. It's possible you will be doing something quite different in the role.
6. I'm buying some new clothes tonight.
7. You'll learn about the structure and purpose of the company.

Future Tense	Future with Going to	Future with Present Continuous Tense

Extension Activity

Make a list of more ways to be successful in an interview.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Make a list of the tips and tricks for giving a good interview that are mentioned in this lesson. Write them in short form (only 3 - 5 words each).
- Go online. Find more tips.
- Add them to the list in short form. Try to find a total of 10 tips.
- Read your tips to a partner.
- Listen to your partner's tips.
- Discuss your tips with a partner. Together, choose the best 3 tips.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I read about tips and tricks for interviews.

☐ ☐

I discuss good interview techniques.

☐ ☐

I write a list of interview suggestions.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- take a long, hard look (expression): think about something very carefully e.g. You have to take a long hard look at what you have achieved.
- tips and tricks (expression): small things that help you do something better or make something easier e.g. I've learned a lot of good tips and tricks for doing interviews.
- best-seller (noun): a publication that is very popular e.g. I'm not sure your manual would be a best-seller.
- cliché (noun): an idea or expression that is not original; that is used very often e.g. It sounds a bit cliché, but you really have to know your strengths and weaknesses.
- self-aware (adjective): knowledgeable about yourself, your strengths and weaknesses e.g. Employers want you to be self-aware.
- misleading (adjective): not representative of the truth
e.g. Some recruiters asked me if I thought the job advertisement was misleading.
- to impress (verb): to make other people think positively of you e.g. You'll impress the interviewer if you give some reasons why you want to work there.

Learning Points

The Future Continuous and Future Perfect Tenses

You use the Future Continuous tense to talk about something happening at a particular time in the future.

You use the Future Perfect tense to talk about something that will be complete by a certain time in the future.

Look at the chart for information about the Future Continuous and Future Perfect tenses:

Tense	Structure	Note	Example
Future Continuous	will (not) + be + verb -ing	the action will have started before that moment but it will not have finished at that moment	The CEO will be chairing the shareholder's meeting tomorrow.
Future Perfect	will + have + past participle	you can sometimes think of the Future Perfect tense like the Present Perfect tense , but instead of your viewpoint being in the present, it is in the future	At the end of the week the committee will have delivered their report.

Examples:

- When I finish reading the manual, I will have learned everything I need to know about doing interviews!
- Hopefully, by tomorrow I will have decided what to wear for the first day on the job.
- At the end of the week the committee will have delivered their report.
- I will be going to a few more interviews in the next few weeks.
- Next week, my boss will be meeting with me every afternoon.
- The CEO will be chairing the shareholder's meeting tomorrow.

Learning Points

The Future with Will, Going to and the Present Continuous Tenses

When you want to talk about the future, but you need to be specific about the circumstances around the event, you can choose from these structures: will + verb, be going to + verb and the Present Continuous tense (subject + v-ing).

Take a look at the chart for an outline of when to use these different tenses and an example of each:

To talk about ...	Structure to Use:	Example:
decisions made at the time of speaking	will + verb	You'll learn about the structure and purpose of the company.
intentions	be going to + verb	I'm going to do a lot more research before my next interview.
things that are arranged, on the agenda or booked	Present Continuous	I'm going to an interview next week.

Examples:

- You'll learn about the structure and purpose of the company.
- You'll also see how they set themselves apart from others.
- You'll impress the interviewer if you give some reasons why you want to work there.
- I'm going to do a lot more research before my next interview.
- It's possible you will be doing something quite different in the role.
- I'm going to an interview next week.

