Let's Explore!

Adam goes shopping for work attire. What advice does the sales clerk give him?

* Sales clerks are paid to give fashion "advice" in most clothing stores in North America.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sales Clerk: Hello, how can I help you?
- Adam: Hello, could you tell me where the men's attire is, please?
- Sales clerk: Yes, of course. It's right over here. Are you buying an outfit for a special occasion?
- Adam: I have a job interview next week.
- Sales clerk: Oh, congratulations.
- Adam: Would you be able to help me choose a tie?
- Sales clerk: Nothing would make me happier. What color is your suit and shirt?
- Adam: I will be wearing a black suit with a light blue shirt.
- Sales clerk: That's a nice combination. The color and design of your tie is more than just a fashion statement, it gives people insight into your attitude and personality. You'll want to choose one carefully.
- Adam: Do you have a large selection?
- Sales clerk: We have the largest selection of ties in the city. With a black suit, it's easy to choose a tie that matches. Have you chosen a color?
- Adam: Not really.
- Sales clerk: Consider red. It is known as the "power tie". You will be viewed as determined, intelligent and powerful. You'll make an excellent first impression.
- Adam: I'm not sure if I am determined, intelligent and powerful.
- Sales clerk: Maybe blue would be a better choice. It says you are trustworthy, confident and mature. That's good at a job interview.
- Adam: Can you tell me what you think about black?
- Sales clerk: Certainly. A black tie is also a good option. It suggests you are classy, serious and dignified.
- Adam: Is there anything that says I am desperate and willing to do anything for this job?
- Sales clerk: Oh, come on! You need to have more confidence in yourself! By this time next week, you will have proven to everyone that you are the best person for the job!
- Adam: Well, by this time next week I will have chosen a tie, in any case.

The Future Perfect Tense

You use the Future Perfect tense to talk about something that will be complete by a certain time in the future. This is the past in the future.

When you use the Future Perfect, you often refer to a time period.

For example:

By this time next week, you will have proven to everyone that you are the best person for the job!

You often use the preposition by with the Future Perfect. By means no later than or can suggest the idea of progress up to a particular time.

Look at the chart for the form of the Future Perfect:

subject	will + have + past participle
I	will have chosen	a tie.

Examples:

- By this time next week, you will have proven to everyone that you are the best person for the job!
- By next week, I will have chosen a tie, at least.
- I will have made a decision by then.
- They will have hired me by the time I decide on a tie.

Learning Points

Modals for Request: Could and Would

When you want to make polite requests you use indirect styles of speaking. The modal verbs would and could make requests more indirect.

Indirect speech is longer and wordier than direct speech

For example:

Direct = Where is the tie store?

Indirect = Could you tell me where the tie store is?

or

Would you be able to tell me where the tie store is?

Examples:

- Could you tell me where the men's attire is, please?
- Would you be able to help me choose a tie?
- Would you please show me more red ties?
- Could you help me tie this tie?
