

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Guess what? I got a second interview!

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What three questions do you think are the top questions people are asked in a job interview?
- How would you answer those questions?

Can Do Statements

- I can discuss future plans.
- I can report what someone had previously said.
- I can talk about events and experiences related to jobs.

Let's Explore!

Adam calls Kristi with some good news. Guess what it is!

* You use the expression "guess what" when you are excited about some news.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Dear Mr. Bari,

Following your phone interview last week, it is my pleasure to invite you to a second interview at Never Odd Or Even. We would like to meet you on Thursday January 30th at 2:00 p.m. At that time, you will meet our publisher, Mr. Keller, and the head of web content, Ms. Andrews.

This on-site interview will take place at our offices at 35 Richmond Street, located at the corner of Birch Avenue.

We would like you to prepare answers for the following questions:

1. Why do you want to be a web content editor?
2. When are you available to start working?
3. What is your expected salary?
4. How would you describe your writing style?

If you have any questions, please feel to contact me directly.

Yours sincerely,

Frank Mitchell

Adam: Hey, Kristi!

Kristi: Hi, Adam. What's up?

Adam: Guess what? I'm going to have a second interview at Never Odd Or Even!

Kristi: That's fantastic! When is it?

Adam: The interview is next Thursday. I'm meeting the publisher and the head of web content. They said I should prepare some questions in advance.

Kristi: Oh yeah? That's great! What are the questions?

Adam: They asked me why I wanted to be a web content editor.

Kristi: That should be an easy one. You like writing.

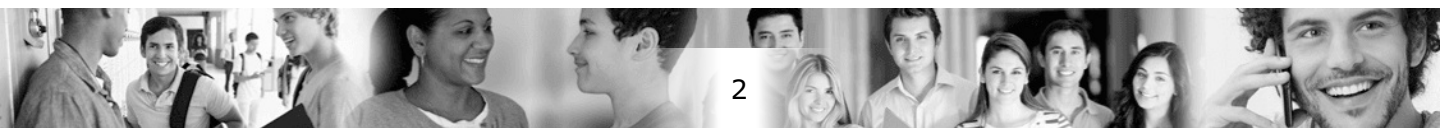

Adam: Then they asked me when I was available to start working. They also asked me what my expected salary was.

Kristi: What are you going to say?

Adam: I don't know yet. I'll have to think about it. They asked me how I would describe my writing style. That's going to be a hard question.

Kristi: Oh, just say something like: fast and furious!

Adam: Or how about sweet and sumptuous?

Let's Practice!

What is in the e-mail from Mr. Mitchell?

Instructions: Read and circle the correct words to complete the sentences.

1. _____ interview last week, it is my pleasure to invite you to a second interview at Never Odd Or Even.
(Following your phone / Follow your phone / Follows your phone)
2. When are you _____ working?
(available start / availability to start / available to start)
3. What is your _____?
(expectation salary / expected salary / expect salary)
4. _____ a web content editor?
(Why want to be / Why do you want to be / Why do you be)
5. _____ your writing style?
(How to describe / How will you describe / How would you describe)
6. _____ Thursday January 30th at 2:00 p.m.
(We would like to meet you / We will meet you / We could like to meet you on)

Let's Practice!

What does Adam's future hold?

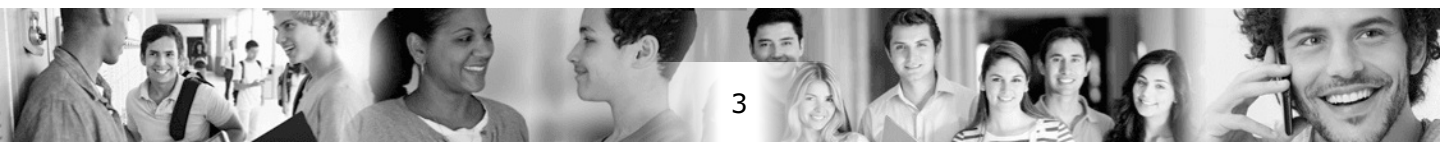

Instructions: Draw a line to match the sentences in Column A and Column B.

COLUMN A

1. At that time, you will
2. This on-site interview will take
3. I'm going to have
4. The interview is
5. I'm meeting the publisher
6. I'll have to
7. That's going to be

COLUMN B

- a. place at our offices at 35 Richmond Street.
- b. think about it.
- c. a second interview at Never Odd Or Even!
- d. meet our publisher and the head of web content.
- e. and the head of web content.
- f. a hard question.
- g. next Thursday.

Extension Activity

Ask your partner about his/her weekend.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Ask your partner what he/she is doing this coming weekend.
- Keep the conversation going by asking him/her follow-up questions using different future tenses.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I ask my partner about the weekend.

☐ ☐

I keep the conversation going by asking follow-up questions.

☐ ☐

We share our ideas and take turns.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- on-site (adjective): live; in person (not on the telephone or through other media)
e.g. This on-site interview will take place at our offices at 35 Richmond Street, located at the corner of Birch Avenue.
- following (preposition): after; as a result of e.g. Following your phone interview last week, it is my pleasure to invite you to a second interview at Never Odd Or Even.
- publisher (noun): the person in charge of a publishing company e.g. At that time, you will meet our publisher, Mr. Keller, and the head of web content, Ms. Andrews.
- located (adjective): situated; positioned
e.g. This on-site interview will take place at our offices at 35 Richmond Street, located at the corner of Birch Avenue.
- available (adjective): free of other obligations; ready e.g. When are you available to start working?
- expected (adjective): anticipated; what you hope for e.g. What is your expected salary?

Learning Points

The Future

When you refer to future events, you can use four different tenses. Each of these tenses has their own specific use, depending on the context of the both the present and future situations.

Take a look at the chart for an outline of these tenses:

Tense	Use	Example
Will	when you make a decision at the moment of speaking for the future	I'll have to think about it.
Be going to	ask or talk about intentions	I'm going to have a second interview!
Present Continuous	talk about things that are arranged	I'm meeting the publisher and the head of web content.
Simple Present	talk about schedules	The interview is next Thursday at 2:00 p.m.

Learning Points

Reported Speech and Questions

When you are sharing information with someone about what someone else said or asked, you can use reported speech.

The term reported speech implies that you are reporting what someone said in the past. Therefore, when you are telling another person what someone said, you need to make the grammar structure "more in the past". This means that you change the verbs to a "more past" tense.

For example:

Direct: I saw you at the office.

Indirect: She said she had seen me at the office.

When you want to report questions asked, the subject normally comes before the verb.

Direct: Why do you want to be a content editor?

Indirect: They asked me why I wanted to be a web content editor.

Look at the chart below for the structure of reported speech and questions.

Statement/Question	Reported Speech
Why do you want to be a web content editor?	They asked me why I wanted to be a web content editor.
When are you available to start working?	Then they asked me when I was available to start working.
What is your expected salary?	They also asked me what my expected salary was.
How would you describe your writing style?	They asked me how I would describe my writing style.
You should prepare some questions in advance.	They said I should prepare some questions in advance.

